"Second, That this committee he instructed to secure such information as may be of value in determining the feasibility of such a movement."

"Mr. Hunter, of this committee, visited the Presbyterian Ministers' Association, of Richmond, on Monday last to present to them this subject, and to solicit their interest and, through them, the interest of the Presbyterians in Richmond, ito made a stirring address, in which he spoke of the need for a Presbyterian remale college of the first class, in consideration of the fact that there is no Presbyterian college for girls in the State.

Two Plans Under Discussion.

Two Plans Under Discussion.

He said that two plans had been suggested—first to take one of the secondary schools already in existence, and, by increasing its endowment and raising its standard, to make it the synodical college. The second plan is to establish an entirely new institution at some control point. His committee is trying to an entirely new institution at some central point. His committee is trying to get information on all points connected with this matter and will be glad to receive propositions from Presbyterian schools already in operation or from communities, which desire to have such a school established within their limits. The committee is not empowered to make any decision in the matter nor to advocate any decision in the matter nor to advocate any esciment matter nor to advocate any special plan, but only to report to the synod in October next the results of its investigations and the offers received from communities or schools,

ROBBERS AT WORK ON WEST GRACE STREET

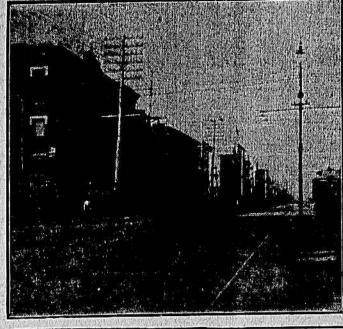

Several Bold Attempts at House-Breaking Have Startled Whole Neighborhood.

Several attempts have lately been made by burglars lately to enter houses on West Grace Street. A servant in the home of Mr. A. H. Adams, No. 816 West west Grace Street. A servant in the home of Mr. A. H. Adams, No. 810 West Grace Street, scared away somebody, who tried to enter there Monday night. A similar attempt was rande some nights before by several men. The police were called, but fatled to catch thom. In the chase an old white man was caught, but in the Police Court yesterday morning he proved that he had nothing to do with the attempted robbery. On the same night somebody tried to open the back door of Judge J. H. Ingram's residence, No. 330 West Grace Street. A servant took a shot at the man, but the shot falled to reach the mark, and the servant gaw his man jump over the fence.

Rainstorm Washes Streets Badly and Wreaks Much,

CITY IN UTTER DARKNESS

Mr. W. C. Trueheart Appointed Notary Public-White Man Resists Arrest.

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, No. 1112 Hull Street.

The rain and hall storm of yesterday fternoon did no little damage in Manchester. In some places the streets were chester. In some places the streets were badly washed. At the railroad crossing at the head of Hull Streetz a dangerous hole was washed out, necessitating the utmost caution on the part of pedestrians and drivers, and there were holes in the streets in other parts of the town.

The most serious inconvenience was caused by a light pole falling, during the height of the storm, on a tree at Twelfth and Decatur Streets. This accident cut off the electric current which gives the light to the streets, and at night the whole town was in utter darkness. A large tree was blown down at the Dunlop Mills, and there were several trees blown down at other places.

The hall storm was one of the heaviest in years, eyen within the knowledge of the oldest inhabitants. But in the country there was comparative freedom from destruction, as the storm did not extend much beyond Bellwood. As it is, in the city, however, much work will be necessified, by the street force, and Captain thated by the street force, and Captain Lipscomb will probably find his hands full in repairing yesterday's damago.

Suggestion as to How Company Might Remedy Evil and Save Cost.

One of the livest questions before the whether the Western Union Telegraph ground, as the city and all other corporations using electric wires here have done, and the final adjudication of the matter in the courts is being earnestly awaited:

matter in the cours is being earness, awaited:

The matter is now in the United States District Court, where it was taken by the company on injunction proceedings to restrain the city from collecting cortain fines imposed for failing to conform to the underground ordinance.

Mr. H. R. Pollard, city attorney, will, as soon as he can find time to take the matter up, move to dissolve the injunction, and start the matter on the way to speedy settlement.

Others Have Obeved.

Others Have Obeyed.

Others Have Obeyed.

The wires of the Western Union Company are now practically all that are left overhead in the underground district. The Postal and the telephone company yielded, and the city led the way and took down the heavy copper and from wires used by her.

But for the Western Union the streets in the congested or underground section of the city would be practically clear of overhead wires.

Officers of the fire department and of the fire alarm department regard overhead wires as exceedingly dangerous, and the insurance companies look upon them as breeders of disastrous fires. The underground district is a comparatively small portion of the city, and yet, unfortunately for the Western Union, practically all the wires of the company are therein.

Might Go Around.

Might Go Around.

It is said by those who know that if the company would agree to place its heavy wires outside the underground district, the wishes of the city might be met, and at the same time the cost would be much less to the company. The suggestion is that the company could run its wires, starting near the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac shops, along the Seaboard Air Line, north of the city, and come in at the eastern end of the underground section. In this way the pole tax would be avoided, and while in a few places the underground district might have to be gone into for short distances through conduits, the cost would be trifling, as compared with that of grounding all the wires.

Ten cars full of happy young folks of all ages returned late yesterday evening from Westhampton Park, where the St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday Rehool went hi the morning 'for' a day's outing' and pleasure. The young folks had plenty of fun with the donkeys. They rode untilted and enjoyed the antics of the wisse little animals when grown men tried to ride them. The donkeys, one in particular, is unconvincably opposed to carrying any but little children. When a grown man gets on this donkey's back, the wisse donkey dumps the man, turns around demurely and seems to smile at the discomfiture of his would-be rider.

In the afternoon the young folks enjoyed dhncing in the splendid dancing payillon, which is always cool.
